WHEAT.

In the wheat market fluctuations in prices of all deliveries were confined in a range of Sic. The volume of trading was extremely small. Weather in the Northwest was again favorable for the movement of the new crop. Evidence of this was found in the liberal arrivals at Minnespolis and Duluth. Receipts to-day at these two coints totaled Lois cars, against 62 cars the corresponding day a year ago. Higher prices at Liverneod, however, acted as an offset to the heavy receipts in the Northwest. A leading built was a moderate buyer of wheat here throughout the entire seasion. The support from this source tended to check selling, which weeld arrarently have otherwise been a natural consequence of the free movement of the new crop. The continued excellent demand for cash wheat at all grain centers helped to minimize the importance of the liberal receipts as a bearish factory.
